Key Features

The clients vision was to extend the living space vertically without compromising the original footprint of the home. This allowed for an additional floor of living space that not only provided more room for the family but also offered sweeping views of the Pacific Ocean. The design maintained the home's original charm while integrating modern elements to enhance comfort and functionality.

Simultaneously, a comprehensive landscape design project was undertaken to compliment the home's evolution. Emphasizing the natural beauty of the Californian coastal landscape, the project incorporated native plants and sustainable practices.

*Giving a second life
to your single-family home.*

Our home addition experts crafted this second-story addition to take full advantage of the southern facing side, with expansive windows and open floorplan.

The master suite extends into the sunny California environment by incorporating wide, floor-to-ceiling windows that open directly onto the full home deck.

The original floor plan was transformed by taking the primary living space upstairs. This left room for additional living areas and a yoga studio.
